

Friday - Planning a short Narrative

Below is the opening to your short narrative. Read through it carefully and have a moment to think about what might happen next.

It's a Friday night and two friends (who have been friends for 10 years) are due to meet each other at the park. The plan is that the two friends will meet here at 6pm before spending the evening at the May Fair. Character A arrives at the meeting point and keeps looking out for their friend. After waiting for half an hour, character A texts and calls their friend, but they get no answer. Each time they call, the phone goes straight to voicemail. Character A is confused and gets worried as Character B has not shown up and it's 7pm...

Your Task

It's up to you to plan the rest of your narrative story. I have attached a story mountain to assist your planning - this can be found under the downloadable resources for English (Week 5).

Remember - this is a short narrative. You are not writing a novel. Planning involves bullet points and notes -you are not writing out your story... yet!
